

The Electrophonics

Biography

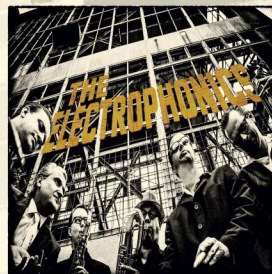

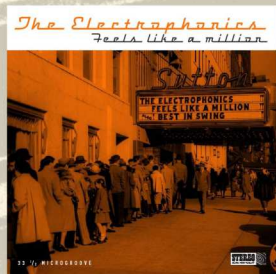

The swingtrain is ragin' on, and rolling steady from station to station, and how...

With their confidence and their large devotion to blues music, these men already performed on many big & small stages. The reviews are laudative, and with reason: The Electrophonics is one of the finest retro-swing-jump-r&b band, sounding like that early fifties style.

Their cd "Feels Like A Million" released in januari 2006 - containing only self written songs - is received very positively by press and a large group of fans. Their next live album "Catch That Swingtrain" released in November 2007 (recorded during Moulin Blues festival) and their second & third studio album "Little A Lot" (June 2009) & "Talkin' About!" (October 2012) also received very positive reviews and eventually cleared the way for the larger festivals in Europe, like the Belgium Rhythm & Blues Festival in Peer and North Sea Jazz in Rotterdam.

A performance of The Electrophonics speeds on like a rolling swingtrain! Guitar & piano combined with the Phonics Horns take care for excellent solo performances. The upright bass and swingdrums lay a solid foundation... And of course the enthusiastic singer and guitarist Stephan Hermsen, that will make every audience move their feet...

Discography

2006:
Feels Like A Million
2007:
Catch That Swingtrain Live
2009:
Little A Lot
2012:
Talkin' About!

Line up

Stephan Hermsen
Vocals, Guitar, Bluesharp
Ronald Roodbol
Upright bass
Mo Gomez
Guitar
Ivo Sieben
Piano, Hammond
Marc Gijbels
Drums
Evert Hoedt
Baritone sax
Wim Crijns
Tenor sax

Contact

www.electrophonics.nl

info@electrophonics.nl

